

Yubo is a PhD candidate at University College London. Before his PhD, Yubo studied law and legal theory at the University College London (LLM in Jurisprudence and Legal Theory) and China University of Political Science and Law (Master of Laws in Legal Theory and Bachelor of Law). Yubo currently acts as a co-convenor of the UCL Legal Philosophy Forum.

Yubo's research interests include philosophy of tort law, philosophy of psychology and general jurisprudence. In his PhD research, Yubo takes advantage of the resources in philosophy of psychology to provide a new approach to theorising tort law. Yubo's PhD research is supported by the UCL Laws Faculty Research Scholarship (Clarke Award).

Yubo's recent publications include 'Rejecting Strict Liability? A Reflection on Kantian Theory of Tort Law', (4) SJTU LAW REVIEW 42-62 (2023) and 'A Reconstruction of the Theoretical Disagreement: Towards an Expressivist Jurisprudential Theory', (2) Peking University Law Review 124-153 (2019).
